Education University Of New Orleans, BS Business Management, 2004

Bio I am a photographer and creative thinker from New Orleans, La. Born in 1982, I have spent the past 7 years exploring the world through the art of an image. I earned a BS in Business Management from the University of New Orleans; however several years later I discovered my true passion in art and photography. I am a primarily self taught photographer who has learned the craft by partnering with established photographers that I respect, through workshops, and also through lots of trial and error. My subject matter varies based on the series, while my main format has been digital landscapes I love the power of a portrait. I hope that my work can be seen by others as a new perspective for the ordinary, looking at the same things with a new perspective can bring beauty to our world - and that is my goal.
